Vocabulary-Skills Study Guide Unit 4 iLit 4.1 - 4.8

| 1. destiny         | n. a person's futureEX: It is my destiny to be a doctor.  |
|--------------------|---|
| 2. smug            | adj. very pleased with something one has doneEX: Jason had a smug smile on his face after he won therace.   |
| 3. equation        | n. statement of equality of two amountsEX: The math equation on the board was hard to solve.  |
| 4. ethnic          | adj. of the various racial or cultural groups of people andthe characteristics, language and customs of eachEX: I love to visit ethnic neighborhoods so that I can learnabout other cultures. |
| 5. goal            | n. something for which an effort is madeEX: The goal of the project was to raise money for theschool.   |
| 6. skittish        | adj. scared or nervousEX: The student was skittish as he gave his speech.   |
| 7. pelt            | v. to hit with objects over and over againEX: We pelt each other during the snowball fight.   |
| 8. authoritatively | adv. in a way that suggests having authority or officialordersEX: The doctor spoke authoritatively about the importanceof eating healthy foods.   |
| 9. indicate        | v. point out; make known; showEX: Please indicate by raising your hand if you need apencil.   |
| 10. reluctantly    | adv. in a manner showing unwillingnessEX: We left the party reluctantly.  |
| 11. version        | n. a special form or variant of somethingEX: I like the traditional version of the fairy tale better thanthe modern one.  |
| 12.fumed           | v. showed angerEX: Mother fumed when she walked into the messy room.  |
|                    |   |

| 13. salivate      | v. to drool, mouth wateringEX: I began to salivate when I smelled the cookies.   |
|-------------------|--|
| 14. circumstances | n. conditions that accompanies an act or eventEX: With the nice weather and the school holiday, shethought the circumstances were just right for a picnic. |
| 15. blurted       | v. said something suddenly without thinking about it EX: I blurted out that my dog ate my homework to the teacher!   |
| 16. routine       | n. series of actions that are part of a performanceEX: I forgot the next step in my dance routine.   |
| 17. decline       | v. politely refuse to do somethingEX: I have to decline the invitation to their party, eventhough I'd really like to go.                                   |
| 18. generation    | n. all the people born about the same timeEX: The next generation of students may be reading all oftheir books on a screen!                                |
| 19. option        | n. something that may be chosenEX: A cup of fruit is a healthy option for dessert.   |
| 20. acquire       | v. come to have; get as one's ownEX: You can acquire tickets to the show at the box office.  |
| 21. convention    | n. a meeting arranged for some particular purposeEX: The teachers' convention had participants from all over.  |
| 22. panel         | n. group formed for discussionEX: A panel of doctors answered questions about theirwork.   |
| 23. grade         | n. degree in rank, quality or valueEX: After studying all weekend, he expected a good gradeon the test.  |

Venn Diagram: Diagram using two or more intertwining circles used to compare and contrast.

ILit Grammar: Types of Sentences

1. Declarative Sentences

Declarative sentences make statements. Most sentences are declarative.

Declarative sentences always end with a period.

Examples I like pizza. This is easy.

2. Imperative Sentences

Imperative sentences issue commands

Imperative sentences use a period or exclamation mark

Examples Stay in your seat. Don't open the door!

3. Interrogative Sentences

Interrogative sentences ask questions. Because of this, all interrogative sentences end in a questions mark.

Examples Do you want to study? Where are you going?

4. Exclamatory Sentences

Exclamatory sentences express excitement or emotion. Writers

express excitement or outrage.

Every exclamatory sentence should end in an exclamation point.

Examples That was awesome! I'm sick of this!